ALTITUDE IS MY ATTITUDE.

I'm cool being a soccer mom.
And a gymnastics mom.
Even a Little League mom.
I'll gladly schlepp the kids to game
after game, practice after practice.
BUT DON'T YOU DARE TOUCH MY WINTER.
When the snow flies and the lifts spin,
it's time for my clan to chase after me for a change. Little by little, day by day, this mountain makes us a skiing family.

THIS MOUNTAIN MAKES US.

Mad River Valley Recreation Hub

Just behind the Welcome Center, the Recreation Hub is your all-access pass to outdoor adventure. This lively launch point connects Irasville to Waitsfield's bustling commercial center and the Mad River Riders' multi-use, multi-season trail network via a stunning 88-foot bike and pedestrian bridge over the Mill Brook. It's a scenic (and selfie-worthy) shortcut to miles of trails leading to inns, shops, restaurants, a local school and even Sugarbush Resort's Lincoln Peak base area.

It's also the perfect springboard for road bikers eager to explore the Valley's rolling hills, or tackle the adventurous climb to the iconic Appalachian Gap.

For a gentler outing, hop on the Mad River Path's family-friendly trail network, which meanders through shady woods and along the Mad River before popping you up in the heart of Waitsfield's shopping district. Browse local shops, visit galleries, grab a bite or follow the boardwalk straight to Lawson's Finest Taproom for a celebratory pint.

The spacious parking area makes it easy to start a road ride, mountain bike adventure or hike. You'll also find an eco-friendly, off-grid restroom, picnic tables for post-ride snacks, and a kiosk brimming with maps and insider tips.

Please remember to respect the generous landowners who make these trails possible. The Recreation Hub is proof that in the Mad River Valley, adventure truly begins right out the back door.

CHASING SNOW IN THE MAD RIVER VALLEY

When the snow sparkles and the air is crisp, the Valley comes alive with winter adventure from sunrise ski tours to moonlit snowshoe hikes. Get out and earn your turns, glide through silent forests or cozy up after a cat-ski dinner. Winter here is all about fresh tracks and unforgettable moments.

SKINNING

Skinning is a cherished tradition, but comes with clear rules to keep everyone safe. At Mad River Glen passholders and shareholders may skin up a designated route during lift hours while carrying a valid pass. Before the lifts open and after they close, skimmers may ascend and descend open trails, if they finish 45 minutes before lifts start or begin 45 minutes after they stop. No dogs are allowed during ski season, and uphill travelers must park in the upper lot. Pre-and post-season skinning is permitted unless otherwise noted. Always check the snow report and uphill map before heading out. 802-496-3551

Sugarbush's uphill policy evolves each season, so check online for the latest updates and to get your free uphill travel pass. At Lincoln Peak, designated uphill routes are open for early risers (4–7 a.m.) and again for evening sessions (5–10 p.m.), while Mt. Ellen offers an always-open daylight route. Uphillers must stick to approved trails and times, as grooming and winch-cat operations are frequent. Dogs are not allowed on ski trails during the winter. 802-583-6590

BACK COUNTRY ADVENTURES

There's a backcountry wintertime route stretching the entire length of Vermont. The Catamount Trail is a 300-mile backcountry route designed for winter travel on skis or snowshoes. Passing right through Warren and Waitsfield, it connects remote forests, high ridgelines and welcoming Vermont villages.

Built and maintained by the Catamount Trail Association with help from local volunteers, private landowners, and the Vermont Association of Snow Travelers (VAST), it's a classic Green Mountain experience. Find out more: Mad River Valley Backcountry Coalition: catamounttrail.org | mrvbc.org

SNOWSHOEING

Strap on a pair of snowshoes and discover the winter woods at your own pace. For a magical twist, rent snowshoes or join a snowshoe tour with Clearwater Sports or Umiak Outdoor Outfitters. Sugarbush offers guided snowshoe tours Saturdays, Sundays and holiday periods, along with rentals. Experience a luminous adventure through snowy woods capped with a cozy gourmet dinner. Mad River Glen offers guided snowshoe tours on General Stark Mountain led by naturalists who reveal the hidden life of the forest and help identify animal tracks.

NORDIC SKIING

Few places blend beauty and serenity like the Valley's Nordic centers. Ole's Nordic Ski Center offers over 45 km of meticulously groomed trails, mountain views and a friendly community lodge.

802-496-3430 | olesxc.com

Nearby, Blueberry Lake Cross-Country and Snowshoe Center in Warren features 35 km of trails and welcomes fat biking too. It's a great spot for fitness, tranquility and a dose of adventure.

802-496-6687 | blueberrylakexc.com

FAT BIKING

When snow falls, the pedaling doesn't stop! The Mad River Riders groom portions of the Blueberry Lake trail network for fat biking when conditions allow. Bring your own rig or rent from local experts. Madbush Falls, 802-540-9201, a bike-centric resort and restaurant in Waitsfield offers Rocky Mountain Blizzard fat bikes for rentals. Green Mountain Bikes, 802-767-4464, in Rochester has been outfitting riders for decades with unmatched expertise.

CAT SKIING & MOONLIT MAGIC

From sunrise to sunset, choose your adventure. Start your morning with Early Morning First Tracks, riding up Lincoln Peak in the heated, glass-enclosed Husky Cat to the summit, then ski down fresh, untouched powder under the rising sun. In the evening, opt for a Sunset Groomer Ride to soak in golden alpine views before carving your way down. For a truly special experience, enjoy the Allyn's Lodge Dinner Cruise: ride up in a heated cabin cat, savor a candlelit meal, then descend via guided moonlit ski on freshly groomed trails. 802-583-6527 | sugarbush.com

HIKES & WALKS

The Long Trail

The oldest long-distance hiking trail in the United States, built by the Green Mountain Club between 1910 and 1930. Stretching 273 miles from Massachusetts to Canada, it follows the ridgeline of the Green Mountains, connecting Vermont's highest peaks. With 175 miles of side trails and more than 60 rustic shelters, many of the Valley's best hikes trace its path.

Lincoln Gap to Appalachian Gap

11.6 miles one way, 6 to 8 hours: Start at Lincoln Gap Road and hike north on the Long Trail over Mount Abraham, Lincoln Peak, Mount Ellen and General Stark Mountain, finishing with a descent to Route 17 at Appalachian Gap. It's a full day and you'll need two cars or a patient friend for a ride back.

Mount Ellen • 4083'

2 to 4 hours round trip. Climb up the ski trails from the base area to the top of the Summit Quad for wide open views. In the winter, take the lift at Sugarbush to Lincoln or Nancy Hanks Peak, then follow the 4,000' ridge to Mt. Ellen.

Mount Abraham • 4052'

5 miles round trip, 3.5 to 4 hours: From Lincoln Gap in Warren, head north on the Long Trail for a steady climb to the rocky summit of Mount Abraham. The views stretch across the Adirondacks, Champlain Valley and White Mountains on a clear day.

Camel's Hump • 4080'

7.4 miles round trip, 4 to 5 hours: Trailheads in Duxbury and Huntington lead to Vermont's highest undeveloped peak, rewarding hikers with 360-degree views. The climb is rugged, and the sense of accomplishment is undeniable. This one's a must for serious hikers.

General Stark Mtn • 3662'

6.2 miles out and back, 4 to 5 hours: From Route 17 at Appalachian Gap, take the Long Trail south to the summit overlooking Mad River Glen. You'll pass shelters at Theron Dean, Stark's Nest and Glen Ellen Lodge, making this a great hike for a long afternoon or mellow overnight.

Burnt Rock Mountain • 3168'

5.2 miles out and back, 3.5 to 4 hours: Big Basin Road in Fayston. This trail offers dramatic views in the Valley, with waterfalls tucked in the woods and a bald summit that lives up to its name.

Sunset Ledge • 2924'

1.3 miles out and back: Short, sweet, and perfect for families or anyone who loves a great view without a huge climb. Head south on the Long Trail from the newly refreshed parking area on Lincoln Gap to this rocky ledge, where the sun sets in a blaze of gold and pink over the Champlain Valley.

Catamount Trail (Winter Only)

This 300-mile backcountry ski route winds from Massachusetts to Canada, threading right through the Mad River Valley. Local access points include Lincoln Gap, Sugarbush, Chase Brook, Millbrook Trail and Phen Basin. Great for skiing and snowshoeing. catamounttrail.org

Phen Basin

4 miles out and back: Battleground Condos, Fayston. Walk west from the parking area along Route 17 to the tennis courts, then follow the Catamount Trail into an old forest road, peaceful and gently graded. Extend the adventure to Huntington Gap or the Long Trail if you're feeling ambitious.

Enchanted Forest

5.8 miles (shorter loops available) 2.5 to 3 hours: Tucker Hill Road, Fayston. Named for the hauntingly beautiful pines planted during the 1930s WPA era. It's a favorite for hikers, bikers and anyone who enjoys a touch of magic in their wanderings. Early morning mist makes it feel straight out of fairy tales.

Mad Marathon

Join the Mad Marathon, Mad Half, Relays, 5K or 10K. Breathtaking views of the Green Mountains, rolling farmlands, quaint villages, historic barns, covered bridges and fields of our famous Vermont cows! After a worldwide search, chosen by National Geographic in their new book, 100 Runs of a Lifetime. P.O. Box 28, Waitsfield, VT 05673. 802-363-9863 www.madmarathon.com

Scrag Mountain • 2874'

4.2 miles out and back, 2.5 hours: Bowen Road, Waitsfield. A delightful blend of waterfall, beaver pond with remnants of a long-lost fire tower and U.S. Forest Service cabin. It's scenic, serene and surprisingly uncrowded.

Boyce Hill Town Forest

1.2 miles out and back: Boyce Road, Fayston. This 93-acre property, conserved by the Vermont Land Trust, offers sweeping views, an amazing pond, stone walls, cellar holes and the quiet beauty of old farmland. Great for picnics, family strolls or stretching your legs.

Wu Ledges

1.6 miles out and back: Hastings Road, Waitsfield. Follow old logging roads through a hardwood forest to open ledges with beautiful views toward the Appalachian Gap. It's short, peaceful, and picture-perfect.

Blueberry Lake Trails

Many loops: Plunkton Road, Warren. A four-loop trail network designed for mountain biking but loved by all who walk it. The outer loop, Amenta's Way, offers panoramic views of Granville Gulch and plenty of places to pause and soak it all in. Parking available at the trailhead, west side of the lake.

Heart of the Valley Trail (1.5 miles)

Bridges, Brooks & Backroads: The Great Vermont Bridge Hop

Each bridge tells a story, from the graceful Great Eddy Covered Bridge in Waitsfield to Warren's picture-perfect village span, offering a peek into 19th-century Vermont craftsmanship. Between crossings, immerse yourself in the local flavor: sip coffee at cozy cafés, browse artisanal shops and take a dip in hidden swimming holes. Take your time, these bridges have stood for over a century, and there's no need to rush!

Great Eddy Covered Bridge: Bridge St., Waitsfield. Spanning 105 feet of the Mad River, this historic bridge links Waitsfield Village to Route 100. Old enough to tell stories, if bridges could talk!

Next Stop: 3 miles

Pine Brook Covered Bridge: North Rd., Waitsfield. Tucked on a quiet dirt road, this 48-foot beauty is perfect for peaceful photos and maybe for whispering secrets to passing squirrels.

Next Stop: 13 miles

Next Stop: 0.3 miles

Northfield Falls Covered Bridge: Route 12A, Northfield Falls. This iconic red bridge spans the Dog River where two covered bridges peek from one spot, the ultimate double-feature photo opportunity.

Next Stop: 0.5 miles

Slaughterhouse Covered Bridge: Slaughterhouse Rd., Northfield. Once leading to a 19th-century slaughterhouse, its rounded portals give it a softer, friendlier look, like the bridge just wants a hug.

AN ETHOS OF STEWARDSHIP

Usage of the Mad River Valley's trailheads and swimming access points is on the upswing and keeping them pristine is an ongoing challenge. Multiple concerned organizations have joined together and developed a coalition of volunteer stewards focused on keeping our access points clean and inviting.

The program is called stewardMRV and they have responded to the needs of public and private sites by proactively engaging in their protection. Comprised of over 30 dedicated volunteers and overseeing 27 recreational access points, their goal is to support outdoor recreation and promote environmental responsibility. Commitment to this mission is essential in maintaining the resiliency of recreation and environmental health everywhere.

How we care for the Mad River Valley is critical for our vibrant future, and you can help! We encourage everyone to embrace the ethos of stewardship and be part of the solution by respecting the land and keeping it clean.

ROAD AND GRAVEL BIKING

The Valley's country roads were made for riders who love a mix of challenge and beauty. From gentle rollers to quad-testing climbs, every ride delivers postcard-perfect views.

Start at the Mad River Valley Recreation Hub, just behind the Welcome Center at Routes 17 and 100. Head south on Route 100 to Warren and loop back via East Warren Road for a moderately challenging ride past farms, forests and sweeping mountain vistas.

For serious climbing, take Route 17 west toward the Appalachian Gap, a legendary 6-mile ascent with grades up to 18%. The summit, where the Long Trail crosses, offers parking and trail access for a post-ride hike, along with some of the Valley's most spectacular views.

Other great starting points include the Great Eddy Covered Bridge in Waitsfield. From here, cyclists can roll up East Warren Road, climb toward the Common Road or tackle longer routes. The Park and Ride on Main Street in Warren is another convenient launch point. From Warren, roads fan out to scenic climbs, rolling loops and gentle valley stretches, letting riders customize a quick spin or full-day adventure. If you are seeking hills, there's the steady grind up to Lincoln Gap or a scenic loop out to Blueberry Lake. No matter your pace, this area offers some of the most picturesque and rewarding road biking in Vermont.

5th QUARTER BUTCHER + PROVISIONS

In the heart of the Mad River Valley, 5th Quarter Butcher + Provisions is a must visit destination for lovers of Vermont-raised meat, house made sausage, cut-to-order cheese and thoughtfully curated provisions. Inspired by the Roman philosophy of quinto quarto, the “fifth quarter” or the art of using the whole animal, 5th Quarter celebrates craftsmanship, sustainability and the highest quality ingredients.

The shop's beef and pork come exclusively from Vermont farms, cut to order by the skilled butcher team. In addition to crowd favorites like sausages, hot dogs and bacon, the in-house charcuterie offering includes small-batch delights like pork rillettes, pâtés, mortadella and jambon blanc.

Beyond the butcher counter, 5th Quarter has grown into a specialty food haven. Vermont's largest collection of artisanal cheeses invites tasting and discovery, while pantry essentials, unique condiments and global provisions blend local tradition with worldly flavors.

Adding to the experience, The Local: Wine & Beer Outpost brings an extraordinary selection of wines and craft beers from around the globe to Waitsfield. Together, the staff expertly guides customers to browse, sample, savor and pair quality products that recognize small and sustainable producers. Elevated yet approachable, 5th Quarter Butcher + Provisions and The Local: Wine & Beer invite visitors to experience the very best of Vermont and beyond.

SHOP THE VALLEY SPIRIT

THE RIVER LOOP

In the Valley, shopping local isn't just a slogan, it's how we take care of each other. Every purchase made at a Valley business keeps our community thriving, our neighbors working and our unique character alive. Across Vermont, locally owned shops, restaurants, inns and entrepreneurs form the heart of our economy and the soul of our small towns.

A shining example of that spirit can be found at the Shops at Mad River Green, a friendly hub where friendships grow alongside great finds. Pop into The Collection for timeless toys and gifts, grab a fresh panini and a hot drink at Three Mountain Café, browse Product Think Tank for locally made, natural-fiber clothing, explore Willow & Birch Gallery for art and handcrafted pieces or stop by 5th Quarter Butcher and Provisions for fresh, local meats and specialty foods. These are just a few of the many wonderful spots that make the Mad River Green vibrant.

Every season and every day let's choose local first. When we support the small businesses that make our communities special, we're not just shopping, we're shaping the future of our community, one thoughtful purchase at a time.

LOCAL FLAVORS

FINDING LOCAL FLAVOR HERE IS HALF THE FUN, AND TOTALLY DELICIOUS. FARM-FRESH EGGS, AWARD-WINNING CHEESES, GOLDEN SYRUP, LOCALLY BREWED BEER AND CRUSTY BREAD MAKE THE VALLEY BURST WITH MAKERS, BAKERS AND GROWERS TURNING VERMONT SUNSHINE INTO SOMETHING YOU CAN ACTUALLY TASTE.

Local Cheese & Butter

Start your cheesy adventure at the family-owned, award-winning von Trapp Farmstead on the Common Road, home of World Cheese Award Winners, Mad River Blue and Savage. At 5th Quarter Butcher, the friendly staff will guide you through a stellar lineup of Valley-made cheeses plus Vermont's finest from near and far. Mehuron's, East Warren Community Market and Roots Farm Market are perfect for building a brag-worthy cheese board.

What's the best butter you've tasted? Cool, prepare to top that! Ploughgate Creamery's small-batch cultured butter, born at the iconic Bragg Farm Barn in Fayston, has won over Bon Appétit and just about everyone with taste buds and can be found at markets throughout the Valley.

Local Meats

The Valley is a carnivore's paradise. 5th Quarter Butcher is a whole-animal butcher with chorizo and sausages that will absolutely ruin store-bought links forever. Gaylord's Farmstand and Kenyon's both stock local beef, pork and poultry, while von Trapp Farmstead and Neill Farm offer meats along with their cheeses and produce. Mehuron's meat department is legendary. Knoll Farm's Icelandic lamb tastes like an upgrade to your life choices. The Mad River Valley's meat scene celebrates sustainable, locally raised animals. With pasture-fed beef to heritage poultry, small farms and expert butchers deliver unmatched quality.

Local Syrup

Maple syrup has "terroir" just like wine, yes, you can become a syrup snob here! Grab hyperlocal pints at Mehuron's, 5th Quarter Butcher and the Warren Store. Mountain Valley Farm, on the Common Road, runs a charming honor-system barn stand for their syrup (and honey!), perfect for a sweet roadside surprise. If you spot steam rising from Hartshorn Farm's roof, follow your nose as sap is boiling! Bragg Farm Sugarhouse in East Montpelier has been sugaring for eight generations, with a cozy country store packed with maple candy, creamy soft-serve and gifts galore. Watch syrup being made, sample the sweet stuff, and soak up a true Vermont tradition that's as fun as it is flavorful.

Farmers Markets

Visiting Vermont's farmers markets is a fun way to nourish both yourself and the community. With more farmers markets, CSA programs and on-farm stands per capita than any other state, Vermont offers fresh, healthy food while supporting local farms.

Waitsfield Farmers Market Saturday 9–1pm

Rochester Farmers Market Friday 3–6pm
Rochester Park, late May – early Oct.

Capitol City Farmers Market Saturday 9–1pm

Local Breads

Taste magic; here you'll find some of the freshest, most flavorful bread around. Green Rabbit Bakery and Red Hen Bakery deliver artisan loaves to Mehuron's, 5th Quarter Butcher, East Warren Community Market, Roots Market and Woodstock Farmers Market. Red Hen Bakery's café in Middlesex is carb-lover heaven. It's not just "bread", it's art you can toast, perfect for breakfast, picnic sandwiches or building a cheese board that will wow your friends.

Local Beer, Liquor & Wine

A pilgrimage to Lawson's Finest Liquids is practically mandatory, Sip of Sunshine has its own fan club for a reason. Recently named Craft Brewery of the Year by Brewbound magazine, Lawson's is a must-visit for beer lovers. Browse their inviting retail taproom shop, stocked with freshly canned favorites and a full lineup of fun merchandise. Pair your pint with snacks, soft pretzels and a cheese plate that practically demands an Instagram post.

For treasure-hunting rare beers, check the "beer caves" at Mehuron's and the VG. 5th Quarter Butcher, Warren Store, East Warren Community Market and Irasville Country Store round out the bounty.

Mad River Distillers crafts small-batch, award-winning spirits including vodka, gin and whiskey using Vermont ingredients and traditional methods. Find their products at 5th Quarter Butcher and tasting events throughout the Valley. Find a fine selection of liquor at Mehuron's and Paradise Provisions near Sugarbush. Wine lovers, rejoice: The Local and Cask & Cork both carry an extensive collection of fine wines. Some locals claim they can navigate fridges, wine racks and tasting tables by muscle memory alone.

Pick-Your-Own

Summer joy = berry fingers. Hartshorn's Farmstand offers strawberries and blueberries. Did you know their blueberries are grown using high tunnel farming to extend the season and maximize flavor? They use a simple structure to extend the growing season, protect crops from weather, and increase yields by creating a more controlled environment. Knoll Farm grows certified organic blueberries with jaw-dropping hillside views. Fill buckets with berry goodness at Sunshine Berry Farm.

Flowers

Mad River Flowers is new to town and you can find a wide selection at their Route 100 Waitsfield location, across from the elementary school. Brighten your day with Emily von Trapp's stunning bouquets at Mehuron's and 5th Quarter Butcher. Emily grows many varieties from seed herself, so each bouquet tells a story of Vermont soil, sun and care. Seasonal stems also bloom at Mountain Flower Farm and Hartshorn's, where pollinator friendly practices make the flowers extra vibrant. Perfect for a picnic, a porch or apologizing for eating the last of the fancy cheese.

Inns with Hands-On Farm Adventures

Several Valley inns have woven farm life into their hospitality, turning a simple stay into an unforgettable adventure. At The Inn at Lareau Farm in Waitsfield, guests wake to the scent of fresh bread and stroll the property where American Flatbread was born. Visitors can see pigs, chickens and other farm animals, explore sprawling gardens and enjoy the open-air oven. Guests are often invited to help in the gardens, pick herbs or learn how ingredients are harvested for the famous wood-fired pizzas served on-site.

Liberty Hill Farm in Rochester immerses guests in authentic farm life. Each morning begins with chores including milking cows, bottle-feeding calves or gathering eggs for breakfast. Kids enjoy barn kittens, while adults rediscover the joy of working with their hands. Evenings bring hearty family-style dinners with homegrown produce and shared stories around a long farmhouse table. It's a grounding experience that captures the essence of Vermont hospitality.

Inns Celebrating Farm-to-Table Dining

Numerous inns in the Valley also feature restaurants open to the public, offering true farm-to-table dining experiences. The 1824 House in Waitsfield pairs cozy, historic charm with menus focused on locally sourced ingredients. Guests and the public alike enjoy dishes crafted from fresh, Valley-grown produce, meats and cheeses all served in a beautifully restored four-season barn built in the 1800's.

The Pitcher Inn in Warren elevates farm-to-table cuisine with refined mountain fare, pairing artisan cheeses, organic produce and locally raised meats. The Hyde Away Inn emphasizes seasonal vegetables and Vermont craft brews, while Mad River Barn combines a modern lodge atmosphere with creative dishes such as maple-glazed pork chops and salads bursting with farm-fresh greens. These inns showcase the Valley's culinary heritage while welcoming both overnight guests and diners from the wider community.

Farms, Markets and Everyday Adventures

Experience farm life. von Trapp Farmstead features a farm store and tasting opportunities alongside its pasture tours, giving visitors a chance to sample cheeses and Vermont-made products.

The Waitsfield Farmers Market, held Saturdays from May through October, is a lively hub where farmers, bakers and craftspeople share their harvests, music and community spirit.

The Valley also offers abundant pick-your-own opportunities, including blueberries, strawberries and flowers. Farms like Hartshorn Farm and Knoll Farm welcome visitors to wander fields, learn sustainable practices and enjoy Vermont's natural beauty. Seasonal events from maple sugaring to harvest festivals turn every visit into a hands-on agricultural adventure.

agritourism

In the Valley, farm life and hospitality come together in the most inviting way. Agritourism here is immersive, where Inn guests milk cows or harvest herbs and farm to table restaurants serve meals grown just steps away. Delicious and delightfully down to earth.

Known for its warmth and neighborly spirit, the Valley is deepening its commitment to community well-being. A new effort brings local voices together to foster awareness, preparedness and care across workplaces and visitor experiences.

Safety and hospitality go hand in hand. Stand Up for Safety is a new initiative from the Mad River Valley Chamber of Commerce, developed in collaboration with several Valley leaders, local businesses, resorts and organizations. The program is designed to ensure that everyone, residents, workers and visitors alike, feels secure, respected and supported in every interaction. It provides front-line hospitality workers with valuable training and practical tools to recognize, prevent and respond when something doesn't feel right or someone may need help.

"Hospitality is the backbone of the Valley's economy and culture," says Eric Friedman, Executive Director of the Chamber. "By giving our front-line staff, the tools and confidence to respond to difficult situations, we're strengthening the fabric of our community."

While focused on the hospitality sector, Stand Up for Safety carries a broader message: when care and awareness are woven into daily life, the entire community benefits. It's a shared commitment to keeping the Valley safe, welcoming, and connected.

The painting above captures the timeless charm of the Inn at Lareau Farm, created spontaneously by Barbara Spencer, Vermont artist and more notably, my mom! ## WHERE CAN I FIND A GREAT CUP OF COFFEE

Kickstart your day at Three Mountain Café in The Shops at Mad River Green, where expertly brewed coffee comes with a side of history. This is the very spot where Green Mountain Coffee started in 1981, long before it grew into today's Keurig empire. Sip here and feel like a coffee time traveler!

Need caffeine on the go? KS Coffee is a tiny coffeehouse on wheels at the corner of Routes 17 and 100, serving locally roasted beans and espresso drinks strong enough to power any Vermont adventure. Bonus: it's adorable.

Craving more coffee thrills? Capitol Grounds in Montpelier roasts its own beans, pouring bold brews. In Waterbury, Black Cap Coffee lets you relax in a beautifully restored train station, perfect for a cozy coffee pause. And in Waterbury Center, Vermont Artisan Coffee & Tea Co., serves ethically sourced beans roasted to espresso perfection.

In Vermont, coffee isn't just a drink—it's practically a sport. Sip, savor, and let every cup spark your next Mad River Valley adventure.
